

The image shows the front cover of an antique book. The cover is bound in dark brown leather, which is worn and discolored, especially at the edges. A large, ornate blind-tooled border frames the cover. This border consists of a central rectangular panel with rounded corners, which is further decorated with intricate scrollwork and floral motifs. At the four corners of the cover, outside the main border, are small, stylized floral designs. In the center of the cover, within the main border, is a large, vertically oriented oval medallion. Inside this medallion, the text "TIGER ENGINE CO." is stamped in a bold, serif font. Below this, in a smaller font, is "No. 14.", and at the bottom of the medallion, "SAN FRANCISCO" is stamped. The spine of the book, visible on the left, shows several horizontal bands of blind tooling. On the right edge, two brass clasps are visible, which are part of the book's binding mechanism.
